

gabrielbrown
sprawl

GREAT TASTING GOODNESS
sculpture/installation
2007

Four hundred small houses made from a wide variety of colorfully labeled consumer product boxes (garbage). They have been shown as an art installation in several different sites. Always laid out suburbia style (with happy puffy clouds) they have sprawled across gallery floors, coffee shop walls, conference tables, public eating areas, public restrooms, and a motel room.

editor's choice